The Intelligencer.

OFFICE: No. 15 Quiney Street.

SATURDAY, MARCH 22, 1873.

"The first Legislature of this State was "The first Legislature of this State was always admitted to have been composed of the best intellects of the State. Its members were generally able and experienced legislatura—yet that body was in continuous session from June 20 to December 11, 1933, almost six months, in the continuous mad essimilating the laws of cereber 11, 1500, simulating the laws of changing and assimilating the laws of Virginia to the new order of things under the Constitution of the new State."

The Democrat is not quite accurate as to length of session. There was a recess of a month in August. The whole session PHARMACEUTIST embraced just 147 days, including Sundays, or a little less than five months. In that time, as any one knows who ever examined the session acts of 1863, a complete statutory system was enacted, adapted to the Constitution, so radically differ ent from the Virginia system as to require vastly more original legislation than is now needed to make the present Constitution operative.

The present session of the Legislature has lasted now 122 days, and it anybody knows what really valuable and important progress has been made towards adspting the statutes to the new Constitution, we should be glad to be informed The difference in the work of the two sessions may possibly be due to the fact that this Legislature, unlike the first, does not embrace "the best intellects of the State."

There is also a difference in cost worthy of mention. The total cost of the five months session of 1863, including printing, was just $37,500. The cost of the present session, up to this time, for per diem of members and officers alone, is $71,248. To add the mileage, which, it our recollection is not at fault, amounts to between four and five thousand dollars, and the printing which at the rates now charged can hardly be less than ten thousand, we have about $85,000 up to this time, for what has been done, against $87,500 for the five months session of 1863, and for the work done then. The work of 1863 was Republican. That of 1878 is "Democratic," so called.

FOSTER, "the Car-Hook Murderer" was promptly hanged in New York at an early hour yesterday. The firmness of Gov. Dix in resisting the appeals made to him for a commutation of the sentence is worthy of all praise. It is to be hoped its influence will be wholesome, not only on the other murderers now in the Tombs but on the criminal public in the Metropolls who must now be convinced that hanging there is not quite "played out."

THE Moundsville National says Mr. ROBERT CRAWFORD, of Wheeling, has been appointed agent of the B. & O. R. R. Co., at Cameron and will move to that place soon so that he can take charge of the depot by the first of April.

ABOUT noon Thursday a ltttle daughter of DR. P. A. HEALEY, of Cumberland, aged five, tell from the balustrade of a stairway, down which she was allding and received injuries which resulted in

The Late No Richardson.

The Latte Ne Richardson.

(From the Parkersburg Jourphi)

Mr. Richardson was yet comparatively a young man. He was not only a brillant havyer, standing in the front rank of its profession, but a scholar of extensive and varied interary attainments. He had many noble qualities of both head and heart, and his untimely end is a source of profound sorrow among his numerous irlends and relatives.

The Capital Question Coming up Again. (From the Parkersburg Journal, Thursday.)

Just as we go to press we received a letter from Charleston saying the "Capi-tal Bill" will likely be taken up noxt week.

Boy Hurr.—A little son of Kearnes Kinney, track boss on the B & O. R. R., was run over by one of the coal cars in the Americ n Gas Coal Mines, on Wed-nesday evening last, and sustained some very serious internal injuries.— West Vir-cinian.

SUNSET Cox voted against the back pay clause, but since it was passed he will use the $5,000 to aid in supporting his father and mother. He says they are both orphans.

General Crook.

The Arizona Miner of February 8, hav-ing published the report of Gen. Crook, ing published the report of Gen. Crook, makes the following comments upon it, showing what is the feeling of the people toward that officer, and toward the Apache Indians in that far-off Territory. This document, which is grinded on the first page of to-day's Anner, will be carefully read by every Arizonian, and, we hope, by every person outside of Arizona who is at all at sea on the Indian question. The document is piain, honest, manly, pointed, and devoid of all subterfuge. It is just such a report as we were prepared to read from an officer who came here against his wish, in obedience to orders from no less a person than the President of the United States, who selected Crook to accomplish an undertaking dent of the United States, who selected Crook to accomplish an undertaking which so many efficiers of higher rank and greater pretensions failed to accomplish. Thwarted as Crook has been by so-called peace commissioners, the work he has done speaks for itself, and points to him as one of the most successful peace commissioners of this or any other age. To-dsy, after one short but brilliant campaign, there is peace and safety, where, but a short time ago, there were corpses of white men and women, blood-stained arrows, fear and trembling among white men, who had then but very little protection from the rampant savages who white men, who had then but very little protection from the rampant savages who are now begging to be let alone. This is what he has done by warlke strategy. His victory over Colyer and other hypocritical runners of the Indian Ring is no less complete, and entitles him to the everlasting gratitude of his countrymen. Quiet and unassuming, he has taken no credit to himself for all this; obedient to his superiors, he has not made a move without their approval; just to the officers of his staff and command, he gives them due praise for all the good that is in them, (and we know it to be a great deal.) loving peace more than war, he has carefully avoided killing or wounding Indians when other means have served his purpose; careful of public funds and property. pose; careful of public funds and property he has economized, until his departmen which he tound suspicioned of all sorts A Schar of History.—Under this caption the Weston Democrat of recent date remarks:

"The first Legislature of this State was "The first Legislature a hear composed to be looked upon as a model financial concern; and, finally, loving fair play for people of all races, he has not sought to win the favor of any man or set of men by bribes or patronage, but has, nevert less, the esteem and confidence of wh nd Indians and the latter race now say that if he has been their worst foe in war in peace he is their best friend.
